

COVID-19 BEST PRACTICES for Return-ready Organizations

STATES REQUIRING COVID-19 TRAINING AS OF NOVEMBER 1, 2020

CA, CT, IL, KY, ME (retail), MA, MI, MN, NH, NJ, NM, NY, OR, RI, VT, VA, WA. This list is likely to grow.

Establishing a COVID-safe plan isn't just about compliance—it demonstrates that your organization puts people first.

Before returning to work, and regularly as guidance evolves, have you:

- Completed training by a healthcare professional familiar with CDC, OSHA, state and local guidelines before opening? This is currently required by 17 states and recommended nationwide.
- Read your state's current guidelines and completed any additional steps required?
- Designated a safety monitor for ongoing compliance?
- Established physical distancing protocols?
- Created and continue to maintain logs of hygiene and cleaning protocols?
- Implemented daily health screenings of employees, contractors and visitors?
- Established tracing, tracking and notification processes?
- Communicated clear policies around employee illness and return to work?
- Restricted travel and mandated quarantine for travelers?
- Met notice and signage requirements?

COVID-19 training

Board-certified physician assistant, Loretta Vitale, can help you navigate the requirements of on-site work in the era of COVID-19. Contact us to explore training tailored to your industry, business and state-specific requirements.

Creative Workforce Solutions

Known for blending practical approaches with long-term strategy, Creative Workforce Solutions provides a full range of HR solutions. We pride ourselves on addressing today's challenges while laying the groundwork for growth.

Let's talk.

Make sure you know—and meet—the requirements for your state. Talk to Creative Workforce Solutions about clear, customized training and practical recommendations for meeting all of the requirements here.